I miss our church gatherings. I miss our singing together. I miss our fellowship. I miss smiling faces in the pews. I miss after service conversations that last long after lunch should have started. I miss being in our Bible classes and studying God's word together. I miss seeing the babies, young children, older children and teens playing and conversing around the room. To say the least, I am looking forward to putting this pandemic stuff behind us!

One of the things that concerns me most is what the kids are missing from not being with their church family, in Bible classes and in children's and youth activities. At a time when they really need a firm anchor for their faith, our hands are somewhat tied as a church to provide that for them.

I think that more than anything this has been a wake-up call for families to step up and provide that anchor like never before. In Bible times it was the family (more specifically the father) that provided the religious education for their kids. In both the Old and New Testaments one can see godly parents saddled with the responsibility of teaching their kids about God and how to serve him.

In Deuteronomy 6, Moses instructs the fathers of Israel to teach their children every day while doing life together how to conduct themselves according to the law of Moses. The text says, "Impress them (God's commands) on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up. Tie them as symbols on your hands and bind them on your foreheads. Write them on the doorframes of your houses and on your gates," (Deuteronomy 6:7-8).

Then in Ephesians 6:4 it says, "Fathers, do not exasperate your children; instead, bring them up in the training and instruction of the Lord." Ultimately, parents are expected to be the primary teachers for all things related to the faith of the little ones with which God has blessed them. That takes an intentional effort. It is best done with a plan and a schedule.

The complications caused by the pandemic makes the call to parents urgent. If your kids are not getting taught at church and are not getting taught at home, they are not being taught at all. They are growing up in a world where religion and spirituality are viewed less favorably than at any time in any of our memories. Parents, if you do not teach them to love Jesus, the world will give them many reasons not to.

Let me encourage you to start with a Family Bible Class. Plan to do it on Sunday, either before the online service or after and make it a weekly practice. If Sunday's do not work well for you then pick another time but be sure to pick a time and keep it. Sit around a table or in a room together. Pick a Bible story to read and talk about. Download the Home Guide from our website that Mark Hixson has been putting together each week and use that as a lesson. Find a book of family devotionals on Amazon or your favorite book seller (suggestion: Grace for the Moment Family Devotionals by Max Lucado) and use it to guide your thoughts. There are many ways to do the devotional that teaches Bible truths and helps children come to know Jesus as their Lord so just pick one.

If you have not done so already, I encourage all parents and grandparents (where possible) to plan a Family Bible Class starting this week. It will be a great time to make family memories around God's word and lead them in their walk with Jesus.

Dios Le Bendiga! (God Bless You!)

by Aris Ortiz

Good morning my West Side Family!
Time to celebrate Jesus' resurrection! Time to talk about the reason for his death and what that means to you and me. Never can we forget why Jesus died at the cross and why he came in the flesh to live a life for us to follow him. That's why God left us to worship him every first day of the week, that we will not forget about all what he has done for us and for all the world. He knew that if we did not do that, we would be on the wrong path, because of the "flesh nature" in us. It's so easy for us to go in a direction against God's will when we don't have that connection with him and he knew perfectly about our condition so, that's why it is so important to worship him every first day of the week and never forget about the reason why... James 1:23 "Anyone who listens to the word but does not do what it says is like someone who looks at his face in a mirror and, after looking at himself, goes away and immediately forgets what he looks like..."
That's usually us!!! And God knows it, that's why, let us keep worshipping together, that we will never forget God's love for us. Have a blessed week my West Side Family!

CHURCH OF CHRIST STUDENT CENTER · ARKANSAS TECH UNIVERSITY

Hello West Side! Thank you all so much for your support and encouragement as we launch our new missional name -- Renew College Ministry! I've heard a lot of great feedback!!! Every year we renew the call for students to follow Christ on the campus and in the world. With a new missional name, we will make sure we are driven by that mission and that we're "all in" with our purpose. As this church knows, the college campus is one of the most strategic mission fields in the world, and we are grateful for the vision West Side has had for college ministry for the past 40 years!

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:

As the Covid -19 restrictions continue on indefinitely, we have all had to come up with more creative ways of expressing love and concern for each other. From offering support in times of grief or surgery, to sharing life changing moments such as birth of a child, graduation or marriage - all have changed drastically. As we try to find a way to bring our traditional ways of expressing our love and support into such a non-traditional and unfamiliar current world, let's make extra effort to participate in the ways that we can.

Someone will be blessed because of it!!
We have two such opportunities coming up!

Wedding Shower

There will be a drive-through wedding shower for Sidney (Brandon) Taylor and new husband Jacob, on Saturday August 2nd from 1-2pm at the home of Jamie and Beth Sorrells. Jacob and Sidney are registered at Millyn's. Make plans now to drive through and shower this young couple with blessings and warm wishes for their future together.

A Look Ahead...

"I have told you these things, so that in me you may have peace. In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world."

John 16:33
