WEST SIDE

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Whose Rules Do You Live By?

by Tim Tripp

When I lived in Cincinnati, I volunteered for a mentoring program in the public schools there. We went after school where the adults and children participating in the program had a little assembly and then were released to spend some one on one time with our assigned student. I had several students over the years but one little guy was a fourth grader named Justin. Justin was a good kid but due to a difficult upbringing had trouble focusing. That made mentoring difficult because one of our assignments was to work through a workbook created especially for the program and to help with any homework assignments he had from his day. Anything that required focus was difficult for poor Justin, so I had to come up with creative ways to get him to do any portion of his assignments. He loved to play games, so I used that as leverage. We did a little work then we played a game. We played card games or checkers or if it was nice outside, we might grab a ball and go out to play. One thing became obvious very early on about Justin. When he played a game - any game - he loved to win and he HATED to lose. He hated losing so badly in fact that he would often change the rules of the game to work in his favor. When we played the card game "War," he tried to convince me that an eight was higher than or "beat" a jack. I said, "No Justin, I think the jack is higher." He would come right back and say, "No it is not, an eight is higher than a jack."

In fact, in all of the games he played he would 'adjust' or out right make up the rules to favor himself. When we played basketball, his shots counted for many points (3, 4, 5, etc...) while anytime my shot went in it "didn't count" and he would come up with some very funny but absurd reason as to why they didn't count. He simply could not lose and would do anything to prevent being beaten. By the end of the year I was very tired of the rules changing in the middle of the game. I didn't always let him get away with it but when it meant admitting defeat, he had a melt down nearly every time.

It makes me wonder if God doesn't tire of us doing virtually the same thing. All of us do it to an extent but some make it a way of life to live as a child of God as long as it is convenient. They know the rules and can read them in scripture but if the rule is inconvenient or stands between them and something they want, it becomes negotiable, mysteriously changed or disregarded as irrelevant.

"I know the Bible teaches us to tithe but I just can't do that."
 "I know we are supposed to live at peace and turn the other cheek and all but you should have heard what she said to me."
 "The Bible says it is OK for people in a committed relationship to have sex. It's practically the same as marriage."

When we choose to follow Jesus and live in the kingdom there is only one set of rules to follow and that is God's rules. It doesn't really matter how we feel about them or whether they are convenient for us. It doesn't matter if his rules are counter cultural or deemed 'insensitive' by the dominant culture.

His rules with our editing and stipulations are really our rules. We can live by our rules but not in HIS Kingdom.

So, whose rules do you live by?

DIOS LE BENDIGA! (God Bless You!)

Blessings to you my West Side Family! by Aris Ortiz

...continuation...

In our Hispanic group we have families from El Salvador, Honduras, Mexico, Texas and lately, from Colombia. In the past, we had visitors from Venezuela too. It is interesting to learn about the different cultures and traditions about other Latin America countries. The best, is about food! Another reality is about people, that it doesn't matter from where you are from, the same things in life will happen to others; everyone has feelings, emotions, hopes as frustrations and disappointments too. But one common thing about people is that every single person has a soul and that's what makes us to be here and get together one day a week because the soul is looking to be in peace with He's creator. Children, young and adult people from everywhere, need to have a right relationship with God; need Christ in their lives for the salvation of the soul. And that's our main purpose here, to show Christ, to teach Christ and to obey Christ to be like Christ and that is why any person will come to be "Christ-ian"
 More to come...
 More blessings to you my West Side family...
