WHERE IS GOD IN THE DISASTER?

September 17, 2017

Tim Tripp

The news and images with which we have been inundated in the past couple of weeks have been disturbing. Hurricane Harvey slams Texas and puts much of Houston and the surrounding area under water. Then Hurricane Irma envelops the entire Florida peninsula bringing destruction and distress to millions. There are fires in the Northwest and earthquakes in Mexico. Lives have been disrupted and people displaced seemingly turning the world upside down for them.

I have heard some ask, where is God in the disaster? How can He see all the human suffering knowing that He could have prevented it? It's a great question. Theologians have for centuries tried to untie that Gordian knot and find it an exercise in frustration. I have never been accused of being a great theologian but I do find at least a part of the answer to the question, "Where is God in the disaster," in the gospels. Where we find him may surprise you.

In Mark chapter 4, the gospel writer relates a story of Jesus and his disciples traversing this body of water possibly from North to South, a 15-20 mile trek in a large row boat. The Bible says that as they were rowing a furious squall or storm descended on the lake. The water became so rough that even the experienced sailors in the group feared for their lives. Meanwhile, we are told that Jesus was sleeping in the bow of the boat. With the storm at its worst, his disciples woke him saying, "Teacher, don't you care if we drown?" (Mark 4:38, NIV). Jesus got up and rebuked the storm saying "Quiet! Be Still!" and immediately the wind died down and the sea became still. Jesus looked at his disciples and asked, "Why are you so afraid? Do you still have no faith?" This caused the disciples to be even more afraid and they asked each other, "Who is this? Even the wind and the waves obey him!"

Simply put the answer to the question, "Where is God in the storm," is that God is right there with us. We may not know all the reasons why the storm rolls in but we do know that God would never abandon us there. I'm not one who believes that God "sends these terrible disasters to judge the wicked." I believe it is more likely that God allows the storms to remind us that we live in a fallen world and to see if we have the faith to trust his presence in the storm and for that to be enough to calm our "seas." When all is lost is God enough?

The next time the storms roll through your life remember who is in the boat with you. The one with the power to calm the storm may just be wondering when you will lean on him bring peace amidst the chaos.

DIOS LE BENDIGA (GOD BLESS YOU)

BY ARIS ORTIZ

Good morning Westside Family, God is blessing us with a new day and a new week to be thankful for and to stay faithful to Him.

-Update on the Relief Effort: I have been told by some brothers in the Houston area that the best way to help families affected by the hurricane is money donations. Thousands of families are facing not been able to live in their houses because they are so damaged by the flood (having to remove the sheetrock, insulation and carpets), and many of them don't have a flood insurance.

The best way we can bring help to families in great stress is by donating money to buy those materials over there.

Still, there are some basic needs; especially for the little ones:

- DISPOSABLE DAIPERS
- FORMULA FOOD
- BABY CLOTHS AND BLANKETS (new)
- BABY WIPES
- CANNED FOOD

BUT MONETARY DONATIONS WILL ALWAYS BE MORE EFFECTIVE AND PRECISE.

Those who will receive assistance with materials (sheetrock, insulation) will be screened/qualified to receive that help.

Whatever your help/donation can be, will be a great blessing to many.

(volunteers need it)

Blessings my Westside Family.
