OPPORTUNITY

September 10, 2017

Tim Tripp

"Be wise in the way you act toward outsiders; make the most of every opportunity." (Colossians 4:5)

Discipleship is a daily reality and not just something we do on Sundays. In fact, if we don't follow Jesus to take light into a dark world each day, Sunday's are likely more about you than they are about Him.

In his letter to the Colossians, Paul reminds them to use wisdom in dealing with those outside of the church. He reminds them to make the most of every opportunity. "What exactly constitutes an opportunity," one might ask? Each person with whom we come in contact might just be an opportunity. A disciple-making mindset is one that is vigilant for opportunities to breath Jesus into nearly any situation, conversation or interaction that might come about. It may not only be times when we share our faith or share the gospel with someone. It may be times when we just listen. It may be offering to pray for someone who is struggling. It may be seizing an opportunity to serve someone who has a need. Disciple-making begins with relationship defined by love and care. In many situations people need to see Jesus in us before we begin to talk about Jesus in them.

It is also important to remember that while disciple-making is always sensitive to opportunities to reach unbelievers, it can also be about bringing believers into a closer walk with Jesus. Opportunities can exist in people of like faith who may simply attend another kind of church. Disciple-making efforts don't just point people to a church with a certain name on the sign. Its objective is to point people to Jesus. Think about the opportunities that open up when you ask a Methodist or Baptist neighbor to go through a discipleship study with them but have no expectations of them changing churches. In fact, you will encourage them to make disciples within their church as well. Think of what God can do through that! Anyone who follows Jesus is being led by him and that will not only affect change in their lives but in their doctrine as well. We call them into a closer walk with the Lord, HE calls them (and us) closer and closer to truth.

Consider the opportunities that God puts before you daily to make disciples. Think of the difference you can make in the lives of others by leading them in a closer walk with the Lord.

Love. Share. Disciple.

DIOS LE BENDIGA (GOD BLESS YOU)

BY ARIS ORTIZ

Remember about that question: What do you have in your hand Moses? Well, that question is here now. And I want to extend that question to you too. What do you have in your hand that can give/bring blessings to some of those that are and will be in need in Houston Texas?

Do you remember not long ago I was sharing that experience about hurricane Mitch? Now is another one: Harvey! And is in place a plan on coordinating a relief effort around town and State in collecting "specific items" to be delivery in Houston. We will have another opportunity to do and send blessings to those in need at this moment. All aid will be delivered in one or two different key places in Houston areas. So, your help will be a key factor and for sure, very well appreciated for everyone who will received. Be ready to be instructed on what you can do (and will be plenty) to help in this effort.

God bless our Westside family!
