A little bit of "culture"
LA FAMILIA

Something that you will see in Latin America is all students wearing a uniform! Every school in the country has a unique color/combination of a uniform to identify themselves from other schools (and easy to identify students when they are misbehaving in public, too) and it is mandatory for each student to wear a uniform all school year. In some countries the school year starts in February and ends in October.
Students typically to start the school day with a national anthem (and a prayer in the Christian schools.

Our phrase for the week:

El Padre, El Hijo y El Espiritu Santo!
(The Father, The Son and The Holy Spirit!)

PHOTOSHOP CHRISTIANITY

By Tim Tripp

I had been hearing a lot about a photo editing program called Photoshop. I'm sure many of you have it and are familiar with it. I just joined the modern era a while back and purchased a copy. What a cool program that is! I'm sure I have not even begun to discover the intricacies of what the software can do but what I have done so far is nothing short of amazing. Besides touching up colors and increasing or lessening the brightness of the photograph, you can also add text and special effects to the photograph to make it truly one of a kind. I took the liberty of adding highlights to pictures to make them look better. But the absolute coolest thing this program does is that it can remove things you don't want in the picture. It actually has a blemish tool that when selected can take away things you don't want in your picture. You know that freckle on your nose that stands out to you in every picture ... click – gone! How about that zit that showed up just before your high school senior pictures ... click – gone! I'm sure if I get really good at this I can use the tools in that software to lose 30 pounds and grow hair back! I can't wait to try that one out.

The problem is that it is not a real change. Sure I can doctor up a picture and post it to Facebook or put it on my blog or send it to old friends from college but, if they see me in person, they will realize that something is up. In fact, if I did that, I may want to avoid seeing those who don't know the REAL Tim because I might rather them see the 'fixed' image and think that is who I really am.

Isn't that what we like to do with our lives as well? We tend to "Photoshop" our lives so that we only let people see what we want them to see. If I can hide those things about myself that I don't want others to know about (a difficult past, sin struggles, family problems, financial issues, etc...) I can manage the image everyone has of me and just let them think that is who I am. I mean, we all do it. Is there a problem with that? You bet there is. The problem is that when we are hiding something about ourselves, we can never establish authentic, close relationships with other people. We'll have relationships that are casual but we must keep people at a distance lest they discover the truth.

Among church folk I call it 'Photoshop Christianity'. We want everyone to believe that we are nearly perfect and have no problems. Then we wonder why we don't have close relationships in the church. We need to step away from Photoshop and be who we are. Let people see the unfixed you and watch what God can do with that.

OLD FASHIONED POUNDING

We are gathering food, supplies and groceries for Rebecca and Patrick Salyards, Jerry and Vickie Yates' daughter and son-in-law. Totes are under the table, in the hallway for a pound of flour, a pound of sugar, etc ... Please contact Wes Tarte if you have any furniture to give away. A group will take the totes to the Salyards' home this afternoon.

THANK YOU!

To my wonderful West Side family,

Thank you so very much for your prayers, lovely cards, calls, visits, flowers, delicious meals and concerns during my surgery, hospital stay and continuing recovery for a broken hip. God has blessed me beyond measure with such a devoted church family, and I deeply appreciate the kindness of each of you. May His richest blessings be yours always.

In Christian Love, Gladys Norwood

Dear West Side family,

During this difficult time, we are so grateful for old friends. We were blessed by the cards you sent and by your attendance at Lawrence's funeral. Thank you for showing your respects to the man who meant so much to us. Please continue to pray and keep us in your thoughts during the days to come as we continue on without him.

Love, Ola Mae Patton & Family

SUNDAY MORNING VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Interested in using your gifts during our Sunday morning gathering? We are seeking to involve those from the congregation who want to participate in Sunday morning worship. James Clements has graciously volunteered to assist us by developing a pool of those interested in leading prayer and/or directing our communion thought time. If you feel this is an area where you are gifted to serve, please contact our church office (Kereigh or Josh) or contact James directly.
